CITY COUNCIL AGREES TO ASK RAIL REMOVAL

Tentative Decision on Traction Line Abandonment Made in Caucus.

CONFERENCES PLANNED

Meetings with C., D. & M. Officials Expected Soon Here and in Bucyrus.

Marion and Bucyrus city officials today had taken steps looking toward conferences with C., D. & M. Electric Co. officials regarding what will be done with the company's Marion-Bucyrus interurban tracks in both cities in the event that division of the interurban is abandoned.

Marion city council last night in a caucus preceding the regular session tentatively agreed that it would ask the company to remove poles, wire and tracks of the Marion-Bucyrus division and replace the pavement where the tracks are torn away, in the event the line is abandoned, James E. Messenger, president of council, said.

Other city officials said they would make an effort within a few days to arrange a conference of city and electric company officials.

A conference of Bucyrus and electric company officials called for last night by City Solicitor Charles F. Schaber did not materialize, he said this morning. He received a telephone call from W. P. Moloney, vice president and counsel of the electric company, late yesterday afternoon in which Mr. Moloney stated he would be unable to attend the meeting, Mr. Schaber said.

Mr. Moloney indicated that he might visit Mr. Schaber today or Wednesday, Mr. Schaber said. Bucyrus officials will be called together if this visit is paid, Mr. Schaber stated.

Efforts of both cities to confer with the electric company officials follow an order made last week by the utilities commission granting the electric company authority to abandon its Marion-Bucyrus division provided that it reached a satisfactory agreement with Bucyrus and Marion as to what would be done with the tracks lying in these corporations.

City Solicitor Carter M. Patton, who represented the city at the utilities commission hearing, gave a verbal report of the proceedings to the Marion council last night.

SANDERS GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Convicted Aid in DeCliff Murder Denied Plea for New Trial.

Charles Sanders, colored, today was sentenced to spend the remainder of his life in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus for his part in the murder of Green C. Miller, DeCliff grocer, last New Year's day.

Judge George B. Scofield overruled a motion for a new trial for Sanders and then passed sentence. Sanders was convicted of first degree murder last Tuesday by a jury in common pleas court. The jury's recommendation of mercy saved him from the electric chair.

William Carter, accused of firing the shots that killed Miller during an attempted holdup in which he and Sanders participated, is yet to be tried on a charge of first degree murder. Ill health as a result of a bullet wound received in a holdup attempt at Newark shortly after the DeCliff robbery has prevented Carter's trial.

Attorney Frank Wiedemann filed Sander's motion for a new trial. He represented the prisoner in the trial last Tuesday. Prosecuting Attorney Russell M. Wilhelm represented the state.

MADISON, Conn., July 26—Robert Driscoll, 8-year-old son of a Middletown, O., paper manufacturer, who disappeared in the dense woodland here, was found unharmed at 8 a. m. today after an all-night search by 500 volunteers.

The child had wandered from a party of boys and girls at the summer colony along the Hammonasset river yesterday afternoon. With the aid of bloodhounds, state police discovered him three miles down the river bank, where he had been following a trail.

He was taken at once to the summer home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Driscoll where physicians were summoned to determine if he was suffering from exposure.

"He's well — perfectly fine," Mrs. Driscoll announced later.

Robert was asleep beside a large rock when found.

"Camping out all night is lots of fun," he said. "It is nothing to be afraid of."

GERMANY ENDS MARTIAL LAW

Chancellor Von Papen Orders Troops, but Dictatorship Remains.

DISTURBANCES CONTINUE

One Death Added to Toll, but Emergency Is Believed Past.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 26 — Chancellor Franz Von Papen, securely installed as federal commissioner for Prussia, today ended the state of martial law established in Berlin and the province of Brandenburg six days ago.

Franz Bracht, former mayor of Essen, remains as the chancellor's deputy, however, with the authority of a dictator. The Prussian coalition ministry has been ousted and most observers agreed that the Reichstag election next Sunday is not likely to put them back in office.

In an emergency decree President Von Hindenburg ended martial law at noon. Outwardly there was no change in the city, but even during the past six days the lives of the people have not been materially affected by military government. General Von Rundstedt, in charge of the execution of martial law, kept the army in the background as much as possible.

Today as he signed the new decree the president said the emergency which required martial law was over and that the public security no longer was in danger.

Spasmodic disturbances which have occurred all during the pre-election campaign continued today. One man was killed in a political fight at Cologne.

POSSIBLE VICTIMS IN TRAIN WRECK SOUGHT

Forty Cars Piled Up Near Bellefontaine; Two of Crew Injured.

By The Associated Press

BELLEFONTAINE, O., July 26—Workers dug into the wreckage of 40 freight cars on the Big Four railroad eight miles west of here today, with the possibility of finding 10 or 15 train-riders dead or injured, though officials believed the men escaped.

It was known that two men were injured when the train, speeding nearly 60 miles an hour, was wrecked late yesterday. They were William Boyer, 42, of Newark, and Conductor R. E. Wells of Indianapolis, who were taken to a local hospital. Boyer suffered lacerations and internal injuries, and Wells hurt his left side when he was thrown to the floor of the caboose.

There was no definite check of the train-riders aboard, but trainmen said about 10 or 20 men climbed on when the train slowed for a bridge several miles away. They believed, however, that the men were riding cars at the rear which were unwrecked.

The train was rounding a curve when the derailment occurred. About 1,500 feet of double tracks were torn up as the 40 cars in the middle of the 100-car train, left the rails.

Traffic on that section of the line was completey disrupted, and engineers in charge of repairs said service would not be restored before this afternoon. Pending completion of the repairs, trains were rerouted through Springfield.

SCHOOL BOARD CUTS $37,668 FROM BUDGET

Operating Expenses for 1933 Set at $369,692; Reduction Is Nine Per Cent.

PAY DROPS ONE-FIFTH

Necessity for Shortening Next Term Looms as Officials Study Income.

The city board of education yesterday gave preliminary approval to a budget calling for $369,692 for operating expenses of the schools during the calendar year of 1933, beginning Jan. 1. The budget approved by the board is the first to be completed by any of the county's major subdivisions this year.

This amount is $37,668 less than $407,350 sought for the same purposes for the 1932 calendar year, a reduction of more than nine per cent.

The budget prepared by the board yesterday will be given public hearing Aug. 5 at 7:30 p. m. in the school board office, and then will be certified to the county budget commission to be used in making up the 1933 tax rates.

Sharp reductions from previous years are expected to be shown in the budgets of all political subdivisions, now being prepared. These reductions are being made in view of the anticipated shrinkage in tax income during the next year. The county, city, school districts, townships and villages are now working on budgets of their estimated needs for 1933.

Of the total of $369,692 sought for current city school expenses, it is estimated that $18,400 will be derived from sources other than Marion city tax rates, including tuition, state and federal aid for special classes and depository interest. This leaves a total of $351,292 to be levied in Marion for school purposes.

The budget also calls for $79,000 to retire serial bonds outstanding and due next year and $56,873.75 for interest on outstanding serial bonds.

The major reduction in the operating budget for the city schools has been made by a second 10 per cent salary cut taken by all school employes and teachers for the next term and the eliminary of 16 teaching positions, Supt. George A. Bowman said. The item in the budget for personal service is $302,067, or $28,283 less than was asked for personal service for 1932.

The diminished school income, due to delinquencies in tax payments, and the shrinkage in the tax duplicate from the reappraisement may necessitate reducing the first part of the 1932-33 term to three months instead of four, Supt. Bowman said. It has been customary for the schools to run four months before Jan. 1, he said.

The program of the Marion schools always has been a meager one, Supt. Bowman stated. Reductions, however, have been made each year until the 1933 budget for operating expenses is $66,008 less than the operating budget for 1930, he said.

SHRINERS CONVENE IN SAN FRANCISCO

National Convention Attracts 250,000; 'National Optimism'' Is Keynote.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 26—Red-fezzed Shrinedom of North America today hailed the opening of imperial council sessions with an announced keynote of "national optimism."

Bands, drum corps and drill teams, dressed in gala colors, marched the streets, invaded hotel lobbies and tied up traffic in impromptu celebrations. Plain citizens jammed the streets and cheered the Shrine's "crusade for prosperity."

The 250,000 registered visitors found the true Oriental touch in San Francisco's Chinatown where the recently formed Chinese lodge, the only one of its kind in the order, was host at almost continuel celebrations.

Sees Hopeful Prospect in Relief Program

SAN FANCISCO, July 26—Belief that the recently enacted national relief program would restore confidence and rehabilitate economies was voiced today before the imperial council session of the Shrine Lodge by Ernest Lee Jahncke, personal representative of President Hoover.

Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy, declared that the government "has not survived the perils of hazards of internal and foreign conflicts to be defeated in economic battle or to surrender ignominously to the forces of depression."

Jahncke expressed the regret of President Hoover at being unable to attend the convention. He said the chief executive was "utilizing every agency at the command of his office to facilitate and expedite the restoration of confidence and the rehabilitation of our national

CITY WORKERS FACE PAY CUT

First Ward Councilman Proposes Salary Reduction at Meeting.

CONFERENCE IS CALLED

Shortage of Funds in All Departments Given as Reason for Action.

A general reduction in salaries of all appointive city employes in an effort to lighten the city's financial burden became a possibility last night when city council voted to call a meeting of all department heads, including the mayor and two directors, with members of council to discuss the matter of a general reduction.

Due to a shortage of money in practically all departments, the middle of the month payment of salaries has been omitted for the last two months.

The retirement of bonds and the heavy drain on the finances of the city for relief work, is blamed for the present financial condition. City officials said this morning plans were being made to obtain an advance draw from the county treasurer early in August to meet the payroll.

The motion to reduce the salaries was made by Henry O'Dowd, councilman from the First ward who suggested that the meeting be called before the time of the next meeing of council which will be Aug. 8. After some discussion it was decided to leave the time of the meeting to Mayor W. C. Phillians.

The reduction would not effect the elective officers although it is possible a voluntary reduction would be taken by these officers, it was intimated last night.

Those effected by the reduction would be members of the fire and police departments, City hospital employes, employes of the sewage disposal plant, of the service department, the garbage collection department, the municipal court and the health and poor relief departments.

Council did not discuss the amount of the reduction, the time it would become effective or the length of time it would continue.

CHARGES ENGINEERS LABORING OVERTIME

Brotherhood President, Asking Probe, Says Firemen Forced into Idleness.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 26—David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, today charged engineers in many cases were working overtime at the expense of firemen and called for a congressional investigation.

Robertson, who as president of the Railroad Labor Executives association, is spokesman for 22 railway labor organizations, also urged speedy action by congress to shorten the railway working day to six hours and to limit the amount of work an individual employe is permitted to perform.

Robertson, deeply engrossed in organizing a labor fight on the proposed merger of eastern railroads into four systems, explained that railroad labor is opposed to the merger because "it will throw thousands of working men on the streets to be fed by the public or given other means of employment."

Robertson's battle plans against unemployment include also an attack on the policy of various of the railroad brotherhoods, particularly the engineers and conductors. He charged those groups with allowing their members to work overtime—"from 20 to 60 days a month while thousands of firemen and trainmen walk the streets."

The long hours of work for engineers are due to the fact they may go back to firing engines whenever they have no locomotives to drive. The practice has enabled thousands of engineers to work from full-time to double-time each month.

MORE BRIGHT SPOTS APPEAR IN BUSINESS

Numerous Industrial Concerns Speed Production, Calling Men Back to Jobs.

By The Associated Press

Bright spots continue to appear on the business map.

In addition to the advance in the securities markets yesterday, the following items were gleaned from the news:

The Tulsa (Okla.) World said the Consolidated Oil company has made a profit the first six months of 1932, with economies assisting. The profit, the size of which has not yet been announced, contrasts with a loss of about $20,000,0000 reported for the corresponding period last year by the Sinclair and Prairie companies merged into the Consolidated concern last January.

At Forth Worth, Tex., the Williamson-Dickie Manufacturing company, which makes clothing, is working a night shift for the first time in two years. Operators numbering 150 were added to the force.

The Illinois highway department announced 8,400 men are at work on highway construction, a considerable increase over recent months.

More than 175 employes will be recalled to the Florence Stove company of Gardner, Mass., which will go on full time.

William H. Parsons, New York engineer, said he plans to reopen soon as extensive quarry at Branchville, Conn., to mine silica, mica and feldspar. That will mean jobs for 100 men when the plant is in full operation, he said.

The Crosley Radio Corp. cut its net loss from $144,957 in the three months ending June 30, 1931, to $77,698 for the corresponding period this year.

At Superior, Wis., the grain committee of the northwest shippers advisory board forecast that big crops in the near-northwest would require greatly increased transportation facilities. For grain alone, the forecast said, nearly three times the facilities used in July, August and September last year will be required in the similar period this year.

One hundred men soon will return to work in the St. Vincent shaft mine near Greensburg, Pa. It has been closed for several months.

* * *

HAZLETON, Pa., July 26 — Operations at the silk mill of McGowan Brothers, Inc., at Beaver Meadow, near here, were resumed today after being suspended a month. The plant will be run on three eight-hour shifts with 150 employes.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 26—The Lockport Cotton Batting company announced today that, after operating at capacity for the past year, it has begun construction of an addition to its bleaching department. Officials said increased orders had necessitated working night and day shifts for some time and now made necessary the increased space.

60 MISSING AS SHIP SINKS

German Naval Training Ship Goes Down Suddenly in Terrific Storm.

By The Associated Press

KIEL, GERMANY, July 26 — Struck bp a heavy storm in the Baltic sea today, the German naval training ship Niobe, a three-masted sailing vessel, went to the bottom.

Forty of the 100 cadets and junior cadets aboard her were saved. Sixty were missing and naval craft were searching the waters in the vicinity.

It was about 2:30 p. m. when she keeled over in the storm and sank. The steamer Therese Russ, which was not far off, picked up 40 of her survivors.

Among the rescued was Captain Ruhfus, the master of the Niobe.

The gale struck the vessel only a few minutes after the great seaplan DO-X, flying from Travemuende to Kiel had passed over and, dipping low, had signalled a greeting.

She went over on her side and sank in three or four minutes.

The DO-X came down safely after a stormy flight.

Within a short time after the Niobe went down the Cruiser Koenigsberg reached the scene. She had been preceded by a seaplane and four fast torpedo boats.

The Niobe had started out from Kiel for Warnemuede, Mecklenberg, and was to have returned in September.

Naval authorities were at a loss to explain the disaster, but they gave it as their guess that the crew, unprepared for the sudden wind, had been unable to reef the sails in time.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 26—My good friend Senator Borah cancelled the debts over the radio Saturday night, and they hadn't any more than announced the tooth paste company that sponsored it, than the boys commenced shooting at him.

Borah cancelled 'em because I guess he knew he wasn't going to get 'em.

But if a man owes you some money, and he is having hard sledding, you don't go to him and say, "Well, that's all right buddie, here is the note, I will just tear it up."

No sir, that's not done. In fact he never asks or expects that. He always understands that he is to pay when he gets it.

MURDER, THEFT RECORD BARED

Police Captives at Springfield Believed To Have Robbed Palace Theater.

ONE MAKES CONFESSION

Slaying of Two Policemen Included in Long Crime List.

Confession of Robert Campbell, 35, to Springfield police yesterday to the robbery of a Marion theater and a list of other crimes was believed today by Marion police to contain the solution of the Palace theater holdup here last Jan. 31 in which $1,100.87 was taken.

Campbell was arrested at Effingham, Ill., Saturday and taken to Springfield for questioning in connection with investigations of the murder of two policemen and a number of robberies.

George Abele, chief of police at Springfield, said over the telephone this morning that Campbell had admitted holding up the theater here but was unable to recall the name of it, having been one of many holdups in which he with Sherman Clemons, 24, arrested with Campbell, had taken part.

How Palace Was Robbed

On the night of Jan. 31, a bandit believed to have been Campbell, followed the manager and cashier of the Palace through the crowd from the box office to the manager's office, where, slipping in before the door could be closed, he lined the employes up along the wall at the point of a gun and after transferring the money carried by the cashier and from the safe, into his pockets, he backed from the office and disappeared through a side door.

An Associated Press dispatch this morning carried the following story concerning the capture of the two men:

The murder of two policemen and a long string of holdups were laid by police today at the feet of three men under arrest here. The suspects are Robert Campbell, 35, and Sherman Clemons, 24, both of Indianapolis, and William Garrison.

Police announced that Campbell had confessed the three were members of the robbery gang which killed Patrolman James Ovid McCracken at Muncie, Ind., last April 25. Earlier, Campbell, alias Russel K. Ames, allegedly admitted he was present when Patrolman Charles Hole recently was wounded fatally in Springfield.

Accuses Clemons

Campbell said Clemons fired the shots which killed Holt, but Clemons denied it. The two were named yesterday in first degree murder indictments for the Springfield officer's death.

McCracken was shot to death while attempting to guard two theater messengers from a gang of robbers who obtained $747. Holt was shot fatally and a fellow officer was wounded when they attempted to question two men in an automobile. The suspects fired without warning.

Campbell named Garrison as an accomplice in the alleged confession of the Muncie killing.

List of Robberies

The robberies admitted, the police said, were committed at Marion, Columbus, Piqua, Delphos, Canton, Dayton and Springfield, O.; Mattoon, LaSalle and Bloomington, Ill.; and Kokomo, Evansville, Richmond, Marion, New Castle, South Bend and Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Springfield detectives tracing the slayers of Holt, arrested Campbell and Clemons late Saturday night near Effingham, Ill.

Friend of Youth Speaks on Chautauqua Program

Capt. T. Dinsmore Upton Takes "The Four-Square Builder" as Subject of Address; Deplores Increase of Crime Among Young People of Country.

To be a "four-square builder," children of today should be taught their duty to the family, to the community, to the nation and to God, in the opinion of Capt. T. Dinsmore Upton, widely known worker among boys and girls who spoke on "The Four-Square Builder" last night at the Chautauqua pavilion.

Mr. Upton spoke with authority on a subject dear to his heart—the welfare of children. His talk carried the conviction of years of experience that have earned him the name of "Big Brother to a Hundred Thousand Kids." Anecdotes enlivened his talk throughout and made it interesting to both the adults and children in the fairly large audience and at the same time he drove home facts of actual experiences he has dealt with in his work. His talk was the only one on the 1932 Chautauqua program and was preceded by a 45-minute program of music, songs and recitations by Bessie Andrus, talented singer, reader and violinist, and the Cathedral Trumpeters, a quartet of young girls who play popular, sacred, operatic and martial selections.

Season Tickets Reduced

Preceding Mr. Upton's talk, R. E. Bendell, platform superintendent, announced a reduction in season ticket prices to $1.75 for adults and 75 cents for children.

"To the four-square builder life is not a battle, it's just a game we are all playing," Mr. Upton said. "You get some good hard bumps, but you get up and get in the game again," he went on, comparing life to a game of football.

"Look around you," he advised, "and you will find some one worse off than you who isn't complaining. It's what you accomplish while you're here that counts."

"We can match the red of Russia and the black of Italy with the red, white and blue of American youth and win," he declared in discussing the new era of youth training in the two foreign countries.

He urged that in teaching children their duty to the nation, that they be taught "not to die for it, but to live for it."

And in speaking of the fourth corner of his four-square building program, the teaching of duty to God, he said: "I never knew a truly successful man who did not have a basic belief in the Supreme Being, and who did not have within himself a desire to do outside of his own work something for the people about him."

He explained that he started in work among boys and girls because he had seen more children in trouble than had fallen to the lot of most people.

Deplores Crime Increase

He deplored not so much the increase of crime in the United States today as the fact that it is children who are the criminals.

Statistics were quoted to show that crime has increased seven times in the last 17 years and that the average age of the first-term offenders in Ohio today is 20 years.

"They have to be punished," he acknowledged, "but you have to give them things to keep them from doing the bad things," he said.

"This is the time when we all have to get together in the families, the communities, the nation and the life above us," he said, bringing in the need of playgrounds and of a program to teach the four-square principles.

Yesterday afternoon the Cathedral Trumpeters and Miss Andrus provided the program, entertaining with an enlarged variety of the last night's program. Many of Miss Andrus' numbers were in costume in the afternoon and last night she appeared in the costumes of a girl of long ago and of a drum major. The Trumpeters made several costume changes.

MRS. CLARA V. SMITH DIES AT HOME HERE

Senate St. Resident Claimed After Long Illness; Funeral Thursday.

Mrs. Clara Virginia Robinson Smith, 67, died last night at 11:15 at her home at 419 Senate street after an extended illness of a complication of diseases. She had been ill more than two years.

Surviving are her children, Mrs. Louie Fausnaugh of 419 West Church street, Mrs. Marie Simmons, and Charles C. Smith both of 419 Senate street, Mrs. Bertha Daly of 129 St. Clair avenue, John H. Smith of Marion, R. F. D. No. 4 and Walter A. Smith of Toledo. Three children, a sister and her husband, William Smith, preceded her in death.

Mrs. Smith was born Jan. 12, 1865 in Upsher county, W. Va., to John C. and Lydia Ann Waverly Robinson. She was married in Delaware county on Oct. 8, 1882. She was a member of a Baptist church in Delaware county.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. at the home, with Rev. James M. Fisher, director of the Lee Street Presbyterian church, in charge. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may view the body at the home.

Shriners Display Gold Cornet, the Gift of Harding

Members of Aladdin temple of Columbus have with them on their trip to the Shrine convention in San Francisco two prize musical instruments, one a gold cornet which the late President Harding turned over to the temple, which made him a Shriner long before he entered the White House, an Associated Press news dispatch said today. The other is a big bass drum which President Harding autographed the night he first trod the burning sands of the desert.

Probate Judge Oscar Gast is in attendance at the convention as a member of Aladdin temple band. He is expected to return home Monday.

Earl J. Burkert, transportation manager of Aladdin temple, declared he had no trouble guiding the temple delegates to San Francisco for the annual convention. He explained he had superintended transportation for the temple on nine similar trips to that city.

HITCH-HIKER INJURED IN BUCYRUS MISHAP

Chicagoan in Hospital as Car Crashes Into Bridge; Three Others Unhurt.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 26—George H. Meyers, 25, Chicago hitchhiker, is in City hospital suffering from a fractured collar bone, cuts and bruises, received last night when a car in which he was riding struck the West Mansfield street bridge. Meyers was picked up by Matthew Toliges of Gary, Ind., and two companions. Toliges, driver of the car, was not familiar with the street and failed to complete a turn at the entrance to the bridge. Neither Toliges nor his companions were injured, but the car was badly damaged. The accident occurred at 7:30 p. m.

COURT NEWS

Files Suit

Watt W. Kyle, executor of the estate of Emery Russell, filed suit in common pleas court yesterday against J. W. Faulkner and others to marshal liens on a property and to obtain permission to sell real estate.

Kyle, as executor, states that he holds a judgment for $166.65 against J. W. Faulkner and Effie Faulkner, and that their only property on which he might levy to satisfy this judgment is an equity in a lot in Prospect. Levying against this property, however, is prevented by a mortgage note against the property for $759.55, also held by himself as executor, he states. He asks that the liens be marshalled and that the property be sold.

He also filed an answer and cross petition in the same case, setting up as a separate lien the $759.55 mortgage note as a claim against the property. He is represented by J. D. Williamson.

Answer Filed

Iva Probst filed an answer in common pleas court yesterday in the action of Jacob Rentschler against Jacob F. Denman and others to collect a note for $300. She admits that the $300 note, made jointly by herself and Denman, is due and unpaid. John Bartram represents her.

TENTS DESTROYED AT GALION CAMP

GALION, July 26—Two camping tents at Lake Galion, north of here, burned to the ground yesterday afternoon destroying the camping equipment and personal belongings of Frank Bernard of Galion and a group of young men, also from here. No one was in the tents at the time of the fire and the origin is not known. The fire occurred within a few feet of the cabin of the lake overseer, who slept through the fire.

Plans Progressing fo New Features at F

A tug of war tournament and a Y. M. C. A. circus similar to that staged at the Y this spring, will be new features to entertain those who visit the county fair on Sept. 14, 15 and 16, according to J. L. Meredith, former physical director at the Y.

Meredith who will have charge of both the tournament and the circus, said today that he had already obtained applications from 17 teams to take part in the tug of war contests and it was his hope to obtain at least 13 additional teams.

Thus far the teams that have signified their intention of entering the tournament will represent the various townships in the county and Meredith said an effort would be made to have teams from churches, luncheon clubs, American

RESIGNATION IS NOT CONFERENCE SUBJECT

Possible Guthery Resignation Not Discussed with White, Brother Says.

Today brought no developments in the report revived yesterday that I. S. Guthery of near LaRue might be planning to retire as state director of agriculture.

Fred Guthery of Marion, who accompanied his brother in a conference yesterday with Governor White in which it was considered probable that the director's possible resignation might have been discussed, said that he and the director went to the governor's office voluntarily to discuss affairs of the department of agriculture.

Director Guthery recently returned to Columbus to oversee the affairs of the department following his partial recovery from two severe heart attacks early this year. The possibility that Guthery might resign has been discussed around the state house several times since the director became ill.

COURT NEWS

$150 Appropriated

The state highway department filed proceedings in common pleas court this morning appropriating $150 as compensation and damages for Mary T. SUITS IN CLEVELAND CLINIC FIRE SETTLED

Actions Asking Total of $1,500,000 Settled for $167,000.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 16—Damage suits in the Cleveland clinic disaster—one of the worst in this country's peace-time history—were settled today for $167,000.

The clinic, operated by Dr. George W. Crile, was struck by fire May 15, 1929, and within the space of hardly more than an hour, 125 persons were stricken fatally by deadly poisonous gasses, or by burns. Many died at once but others lingered several weeks before they succumbed.

Most of the deaths were caused by the poisonous gas generated by the burning of X-ray films in the clinic laboratory.

In addition to the loss the clinic sustained from the fire itself and from the interruption of business while it moved to a new building, it was made defendant in more than $1,500,000 in damage suits filed by victims who survived and by relatives of those who died.

For the clinic, with only $30,000 in liability insurance, to pay the full amount of the claims was impossible. It therefore negotiated with the claimants for many months until the amount was scaled down within the limit of ability to pay.

Sixty-nine victims or their heirs will participate in the $167,000 settlement, which was approved in common pleas court late yesterday. The payments will range from $750 to $9,000.

Tony May Home.

Tony May, whose disappearance early Sunday morning after a shot had been fired near his residence east of Green Camp was believed by his wife to be an attempt at suicide, was reported to have returned to his home today after an unexplained absence. County authorities made a fruitless midnight search for him when they were called by Mrs. May.

CITY BRIEFS

L. O. O. M. Meeting — Routine business was transacted at the meeting of Marion Lodge No. 889, Loyal Order of Moose, last night in the Lodge hall. The next meeting will be in one week.

Church Picnic—The annual Sunday school picnic of Fite Memorial Baptist church will be held Thursday afternoon at McKinley park. A large attendance is expected. The picnickers will meet at the church at 2 p. m. and leave in a body for the park.

Funeral Today—The funeral of Mrs. Frances I. Hollanshead, former Marion resident who died Sunday at Galion, was conducted today at 2:30 p. m. at Greenwood Evangelical church. Rev. Irvin Kauffman, pastor, was assisted by Rev. H. H. Maxwell, pastor of Grace Evangelical church. Burial was made in Marion cemetery.

Return Home—Raymond Walker of Joliet, Ill., has returned home after a visit with Mrs. Walker who is ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lena Tudor of 425 Blaine avenue. Mrs. Walker is reported to be slowly improving.

Sparks Start Fire—Sparks from a bonfire set fire to a hay field at the rear of the home of Dr. J. T. Gruber at 871 Mt. Vernon avenue yesterday. The blaze was put out by firemen from the central station with slight damage.

Tobin Improving—Relief Commissioner C. M. Tobin, who has been ill at his home on Sugar street for the last several days, was reported to be improved today.

BRONSON SPEAKS TO Y'S MEN'S CLUB

An inspirational talk in which he urged young men to mix into the civic, social and business activities of their community instead of "hanging back" was given to members of the Y's Men's club in the Marion City club last night by C. F. Bronson, manager for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Plans for a club party next Monday night were discussed.

WORLD PEACE THEME OF STUDENTS' TALKS

Two Members of Good Will Caravan Address Groups in Marion, Vicinity.

Coburn T. Wheeler of Petersboro, N. H., who with Charles A. Engvall of Minneapolis, Minn., is addressing luncheon clubs, playground groups, church congregations and other organizations in Marion and vicinity, will speak tonight at the meeting of the Squareheads in the Y. M. C. A. Last night they were guests at the meeting of the Y's Men's club.

Sunday Mr. Engvall spoke at Epworth M. E. church and also addressed the Sunday school class taught by Harvey Zachman at Calvary Evangelical church. He also spoke before the Sunday school of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church and delivered the address during the church hour at the First Church of the Brethren. In the afternoon he spoke before a group of men at St. Paul's Episcopal church and Sunday night was the speaker at the Christian Endeavor society meeting at Central Christian church.

Mr. Wheeler spoke at the Bethel church near Cardington and also addressed the congregation of the M. P. church in Cardington. He spoke during the church service at the Quaker church at Mt. Gilead and in the evening led the Epworth League service and delivered the sermon during the worship hour at the M. P. church in that place.

They will remain in Marion throughout the week and will speak at a number of meetings in the city and vicinity.

The young men are students at Harvard university and are touring the state under the sponsorship of the Quakers and the Young People's Religious Union of the Unitarian church in the interest of greater understanding of international goodwill as a basis for perpetual peace.

RELATIVES ATTEND COLUMBUS FUNERAL

Relatives from Marion and Prospect attended the funeral of Clarence Betz, 45, yesterday afternoon in Columbus. Betz, who died Saturday of injuries suffered when a 35-foot wall fell on him Friday morning, stayed with his brother, B. D. Betz of South High street, at various times. He was engaged in the work of razing the old Vendome hotel in Columbus when one of the walls collapsed. He died in St. Francis hospital.

Mr. Betz had a wide circle of acquaintances here. Those who attended the funeral from Marion and vicinity were his brothers, Mr. Betz of South High street, Grover Betz of Prospect, a sister, Mrs. Roberta VanBuskirk of Lake street and a cousin, Mrs. Anna Betz of Chicago avenue. Burial was made at Circleville.

CAMPAIGN OPENINGS PLANNED BY PARTIES

Announce Details of Hoover Acceptance; Democratic Plans Incomplete.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 26—Plan-making conferences for the Democratic presidential nominee's campaign went ahead here today as the Republican national committee announced just how their candidate would be told of his re-nomination.

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee and backer of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, extended his tour into Washington. He arranged several talks, including one with newspapermen late in the day.

And George de B. Keim, secretary of the Republican group, completed plans for President Hoover's notification on Aug. 11. The ceremonies will run like this:

Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, will open with a speech at 8:30 p. m. in Constitution hall, introducing Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, head of the notification committee.

Snell was to deliver a short address.

The President will reply, his acceptance being carried over radio hook-ups as well as international short wave broadcasts.

At 1 p. m. the afternoon of Aug. 11—which is the anniversary of President Hoover's acceptance in 1928—the chief executive and Mrs. Hoover will receive at a White House buffet luncheon members of the notification committee, the national committee, campaign officials and the reception committee.

Admission to Constitution hall, which seats 4,000, will be by invitation.

SEIBERLING STATES PROHIBITION STAND

By The Associated Press

KENT, O., July 26—Declaring he favors submitting the prohibition question to the people for a vote but indicating he has modified his dry stand only far enough to embrace the resubmission plank of the Republican national platform, Francis Seiberling of Akron, Fourteenth district congressman, today made his first statement on the wet and dry issue since opening his campaign for reelection.

An address before the Kent Rotary club was the occasion for the declaration. Seiberling says that he views the resubmission plank of the G. O. P. platform as "an obligation" on his part. He is opposed for election by Dow Harter, Akron Democrat and outright repealist.

Family Reunions

Roesch

The eighth annual reunion of the Franklin Roesch family was held Sunday at the home of Henry Roesch of near Iberia. A basket dinner was served at the noon hour and later a short business session was held. Henry Roesch was elected president, Lowell French, vice president, Francis Roesch, secretary and treasurer. Linard Roesch, Pearl Roesch and Mrs. E. Guinther were named to serve on the program committee for next year. The next reunion will be held the third Sunday in July, 1933, at the Clyde C. Holderness home south of Galion.

OHIO REPUBLICANS DISCUSS CAMPAIGN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 26—Ohio Republican candidates met today with Charles H. Lewis of Harpster, campaign manager, to map out plans for the fall canvass for votes. Edward D. Schorr, chairman of the state central and executive committees, and Edward Martin, assistant postmaster general, were in the meeting.

Lewis said the group will report its plans to the state central committee within 10 days. He reported the Republicans are prepared to wage a campaign along constructive lines without dealing in personalities.

Martin, Lewis indicated, will be appointed administrative assistant to handle the national administration campaign in the state.

Ambassador to Great Britain Returns to U. S. Today; Will Go to Washington.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 26—Andrew W. Mellon, returning today on the liner Majestic, denied reports that he intended to resign as ambassador to Great Britain.

"That's news to me—midsummer news," said Mr. Mellon.

The ambassador while on board the boat was not certain whether he would go directly to Pittsburgh or to Washington, but said he would spend no time in New York.

He declined to discuss the reason for his trip home, saying only: "There was a lull over there for the time, and I took advantage of it."

He refused to discuss debts or reparations, or anything official.

SHERIFF DECLINES TO DROP DEATH PROBE

Will Investigate O. N. G. Truck Mishap, Despite Driver's Exoneration.

By The Associated Press

LANCASTER, O., July 26—A full investigation of a fatal traffic accident involving an Ohio National Guard truck was planned by Fairfield county authorities today, despite a report of army officers exonerating the driver of the truck, Sergeant Emmett S. Scott of Lima.

Esther Belgya, 8, of Columbus, was killed near here Sunday when thrown from an auto, which the military officers said sideswiped the tail of the truck. Scott, held in technical custody, was absolved of blame by General Harold Bush, in charge of national guardsmen in the Hocking Valley mine district.

Sheriff Gail Sessler took an interest in the case on the report that Scott did not stop after the accident, but Gen. Bush said investigation showed Scott thought the auto merely glanced lightly off the fender, and did not realize there had been a serious accident.

Although Scott was held blameless by Gen. Bush, another sergeant, Leo F. Sines of Columbus, was demoted to the rank of private, when the general learned the truck was not being used for official business. Sines was alleged to have sent Scott to Columbus to deliver a note to his wife.

CONVICT PAROLED TO DIE FREE MAN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 26—The hope of Sam Scheff that he might die outside the prison walls will be fulfilled.

Saved from the electric chair more than 17 years ago when a death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, Scheff was paroled after he suffered a heart attack at the Ohio penitentiary yesterday.

The parole was granted at the order of Governor George White and today the aging prisoner lay in a Columbus hospital where doctors said death was imminent.

Scheff and "Money Jim" Smith were convicted of slaying Patrolman James Ballard of Columbus during an attempted burglary on Nov. 14, 1914.

$25,000 MARYSVILLE DAMAGE SUIT OPENS

Marion Man Asks Amount in Accidental Death of George Alexander.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, July 26 — A $25,000 damage suit, brought by Stephen J. Hart of Marion, administrator of the estate of the late George Alexander of near LaRue, against Ada Phillips of Franklin, O., as a result of Alexander's death in an automobile accident last October, opened here this morning.

Alexander was killed instantly Oct. 23 by a truck belonging to Mrs. Phillips and driven by Harkes Gabbard of Franklin. The accident occurred on the Marion road near Pharisburg when Gabbard, driving north, passed another machine and struck the car driven south by Alexander.

The trial began this morning before Judge F. LeRoy Allen and a jury of 10 men and two women. Four of the 12 witnesses summoned by the plaintiff were examined. Eight witnesses have been summoned by the defense.

Court was adjourned at 12:30 this afternoon for the funeral of County Commissioner George W. Crandell. The trial will be resumed Wednesday morning.

O'DOWD NAMED TO PARK BOARD

Mayor Makes Appointment To Fill Vacancy Caused by Born Resignation.

The appointment of James A. O'Dowd of 132 Spencer street as a member of the park board to fill the unexpired term of Erwin Born who recently moved from the city, was confirmed by city council at its meeting last night.

The appointment of O'Dowd was made by Mayor W. C. Phillians last week after Born had submitted a formal resignation. Born was first appointed a member of the board by the late Mayor Earl Harm. He was reappointed by former Mayor L. Don Jones. His present term would have expired in 1935.

The average degree of hardness of the city water for seven days from July 17 to 24 was given as 11 by Floyd Browne, city chemist in a report to council. On five days out of the eleven the degree of hardness was less than 11 points and on two days was 11.2 and 11.7 degrees. The franchise with the water company fixes the maximum at 12 points.

Declaring that the proposed reduction of $25 a month in the fee being paid for the delivery of garbage at the hog farm west of the city would be inadequate in the face of present conditions, the Terminal Service Co. of Cincinnati, petitioned city council last night to withdraw the resolution providing for the reduction.

The resolution calling for the reduction was given the first reading at the meeting of city council two weeks ago but failed of adoption when a motion to suspend the rules lost when five members of council voted against the motion.

The resolution followed a complaint by the Cincinnati company that the $50 it is now paying is too high. The company has asked for a meeting with city officials in order to reach an understanding. The communication was referred to the service director.

Thirty-six hundred dollars transferred by council last night to the various funds included $2,400 to the sewage treatment fund, $450 to the health fund, $50 to the fund for clerk hire for the civil service commission and $750 from the fund to the garbage collection department for horses, feed and automobile supplies.

VACANCY IS FILLED ON COUNCIL BOARD

P. E. Wilson has been appointed to succeed Rev. R. J. Robinson of the Park Street A. M. E. church on the advisory committee of the Council of Seven, a colored organization in Marion for the improvement of the citizenship and welfare of colored residents. Rev. Robertson recently left Marion after resigning as pastor of the church.

John Leer is president of a subordinate committee in the West Side of the city, and Albert Wilder is president in the East Side. They will meet with the main council every third Wednesday for a discussion of general problems.

FOUR PERSONS HURT AS CAR TURNS OVER

Minor injuries were suffered by occupants of a car driven by Carroll Schmidt, 23, of 380 North Prospect street Sunday morning in an accident at Wyandot. The car turned over in loose gravel. Mr. Schmidt received facial lacerations, scratches and bruises. Miss Martha Weaver of Marion suffered a broken finger on her right hand. Miss Dorothy Hite and Miss Sibler, also of Marion, were bruised. The four continued to Sandusky where they spent Sunday. Damage to the car was not extensive.

MISS SADIE COOK TAKEN BY DEATH

GALION, July 26—Miss Sadie Elizabeth Cook, 53, died Monday afternoon at the home where she was born, five miles west of Galion on the Mt. Vernon road. She had been ill six months.

She was born July 16, 1879, the daughter of George W. and Catherine (Goldsmith) Cook.

Brife funeral services will be held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at the home, and continued services at Whetstone Reformed church at 2:30. Rev. C. H. Riedesel will officiate and interment will be made in Whetstone cemetery.

Dies in Detroit.

MARYSVILLE, O., July 26—A message was received here Monday announcing the sudden death from heart disease of John J. Hudson, 50, of Detroit, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Emma Graham, at Kansas City, where he had gone to visit. Hudson was engaged in the hardware business in Marysville for several years. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Graham and Ethel Hudson, a teacher at Detroit.

My Beauty Hint

BY LEILA HYAMS

REAL beauty is so deeply-rooted that one can store up a supply of it that will last from one season to the next.

The best possible means of acquiring this more lasting beauty is by walking.

Indoor boudoir beauty treatments pale in insignificance when balanced beside this morning outdoor exercise.

There is a drawback to walking to one's place of work in the morning, because of one's costume. Therefore a before-breakfast habit is more beneficial.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

A Serious "Row"

CASS stared at her. "Didn't you know John was getting in to-day?" he asked blankly.

Sondra shook her head. "No—" She laughed. "Why should I know? Anyway . . . I can't go to meet him. I've got an engament."

It was not the truth, but not for anything in the world would she have allowed him to know it.

John on his way home—almost home—and she knew nothing about it.

There seemed to be a queer little space in her mind, and as she stood staring at Cass's bewildered face, into that space crept a picture of a girl's face—a pretty face with a saucy provoking smile—Natalie Symons.

Cass was fumbling with his watch.

"Well . . . better be off then—" he mumbled. "Don't want to miss him." He looked round the room as if for inspiration. "Give him your love, I suppose?" he queried vaguely.

"Oh yes, give him my love of course," Sondra said lightly.

She went down to the door with him and waved him goodbye, but her steps dragged as she mounted the stairs again, and there was a heavy feeling at her heart.

John was home, and he had not let her know.

As a rule, if he had been in Europe, he cabled her when he sailed.

Well, it was no concern of hers, but she would take very good care to be out not only tonight, but all day tomorrow, and unable to see him if he called or rang up.

She went to her own room and shut the door.

There was a photograph of John Anderson on the mantelpiece, and she went across to it and looked at it with curious eyes.

He had gone away three days after Mark sailed.

Mark had not forgotten her she knew; Mark would never forget her, but John. . . .

Supposing she had lost his friendship—for ever.

Then she laughed at herself for the thought. How absurd They had only to meet and everything would be as it had always been.

Still, it was strange he had not told her that he was coming home.

Sondra was going to bed that night when Flora came knocking at her door.

"Can I come in?"

"Oh, yes—" Sondra said wearily. She was feeling bored and dispirited; she had spent the evening with some dull people in order to be out of the house if John Anderson called, and after all she need not have troubled for he had neither called nor rang up.

Of course he had only been in town a few hours; she tried hard to make excuses for him even while she could only remember that the last time he returned from Europe he had come directly to her to find out why she had not met him at the pier.

Apparently this time he was not interested to know the explanation of her absence.

Flora came into the room wrapped in an elaborate lounging robe and smoking a cigaret.

"I've had a row with Ben," she announced briefly.

Sondra said nothing; she knew of what these "rows" consisted.

They were usually a burst of storming and nagging on Flora's part because she could not immediately get something she wanted until, in sheer desperation, Ben gave way.

Flora sat down on the side of the bed and looked at her sister.

"No, it's not the usual sort of row," she said, reading Sondra's thoughts. "It's serious this time. In fact ... I'm going away."

"Alone?" Sondra asked without much interest, and she wondered whose hospitality she herself could ask, seeing that Ben did not care for her to stay in the house when his wife was not there.

"Alone—and for ever," Flora said quietly.

Sondra turned round.

"Nonsense," she said sharply.

"It's quite true," Flora laughed. "I'm fed-up, fed-up, fed-up," she said with a fierce note in her voice. "So fed-up in fact that I lost my temper tonight and told Ben exactly what I thought of him.

"And what do you think of him?" Sondra asked.

She had so often wondered: Flora never discussed her husband though she treated him so callously.

Flora flung her cigaret into the empty grate.

"I think he's a ....worm," she said.

There was an eloquent silence.

"Oh, I know he's kind—" Flora went on with a sort of weary resignation. "But kindness is revolting when it comes from the wrong person. I'd rather have my eyes blacked by a man I cared for, than a diamond necklace from ....well, from Ben."

Sondra took up a brush and began mechanically to smooth her hair.

"Well——and so——what?" she asked.

Flora shrugged her slim shoulders.

"One word led to another, of course, and in the end the worm turned. He accused me of not caring for him—which is true—and of carying for..for some one else.... which is also true."

"Meaning Jocelyn Farr?" Sondra asked.

"Yes. I've often wondered if you guessed. I care for him all right and he knows it, but it's no use; he's got puritanical ideas — your friend Mark Merriman reminds me of him a little." She broke off to ask for a moment, "Well, what do you think about it?"

"I think it's a mistake to have quarrelled with Ben if you can't have anything better," Sondra said slowly.

Flora laughed bitterly. "You would! You're a thousand times more worldly than I am. I had those sort of ideas too, once, but not now—" She started up and began pacing the room restlessly. "I tell you I can't stand it any longer. What do I get out of it? Clothes, and jewelry, and boring dinner parties and masses of boring friends, and nothing better to look forward to—ever! I shall get old and fat, and Ben will get older and fatter, and then some day I shall die — never having known what it means to be happy, or to have done anything worth while. I can't go on with it, Sondra. I simply can't."

"What are you going to do, then?"

"I'm going away. I told Ben so, and then of course he came round and begged and implored—" she gave a little shiver of distaste.

"And where are you going?"

"I don't know. I've got a little money put away—not a great deal, of course, but I've got to get out somewhere—where I can breathe, and belong to myself . . . I suppose you think I'm mad?"

Sondra shook her head.

"I think you'll be sorry—if you do this."

"I shan't be any more sorry than I am now. It's like living in a cage to live in this house; a stifling cage. I'm still young, and I've got to be free, that's all I know."

Sondra stared at her sister. She had never believed Flora capable of so much feeling. For some time she had guessed that Flora and Jocelyn Farr liked one another, but then as Flora had just said—Jocelyn had puritanical ideas.

Yes, he was like Mark — Mark who had insisted that they get married.

Flora went on half apologetically.

"The only thing that worries me is—what will you do? You can't stay here with Ben, of course, even if he wanted you to, and he won't, you know that. I'm afraid it means cutting off your allowance — I shan't have any too much money of my own, and generosity was never Ben's long suit, as you know. You've got the little bit mother left, of course, but that won't be much use. What will you do, Sondra?"

Sondra did not answer, but her heart began to beat in a quick, frightened way.

What could she do?

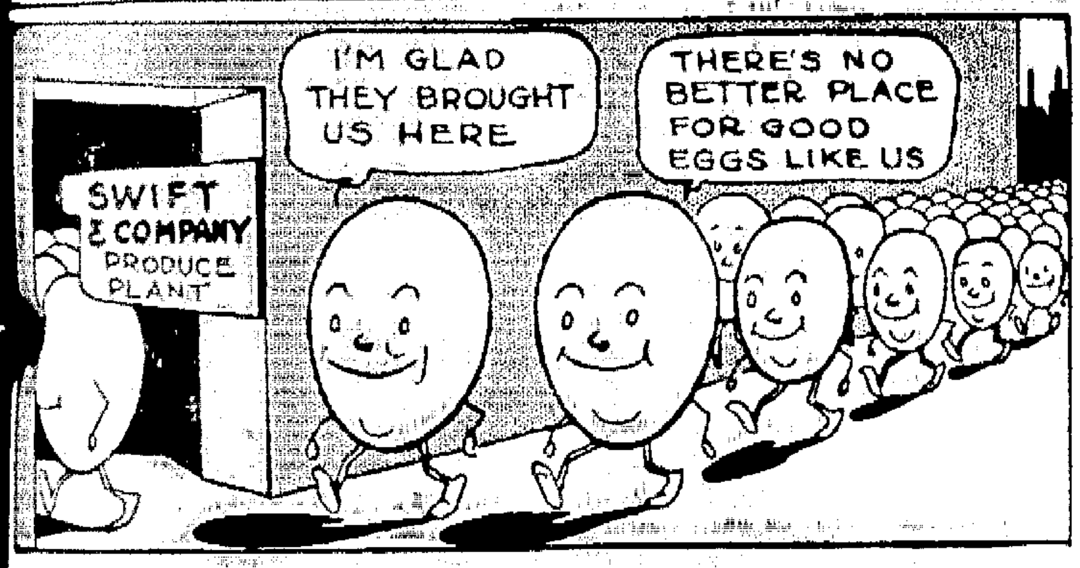
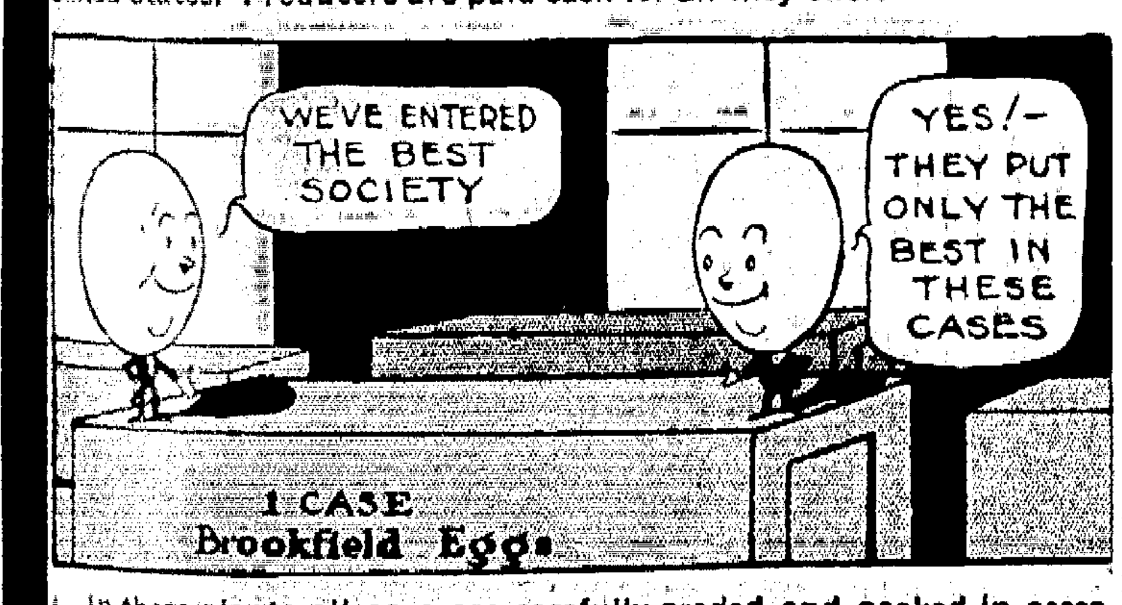
WHERE GOOD EGGS GET WHAT THEY DESERVE



SWIFT & COMPANY PRODUCE PLANT
I'M GLAD THEY BROUGHT US HERE
THERE'S NO BETTER PLACE FOR GOOD EGGS LIKE US

Every day hundreds of thousands of eggs are delivered by farm patrons to more than 100 Swift & Company produce plants over the United States. Producers are paid cash for all they offer.



WE'VE ENTERED THE BEST SOCIETY
YES!— THEY PUT ONLY THE BEST IN THESE CASES
1 CASE Brookfield Eggs

In these plants all eggs are carefully graded and packed in cases. Only the best, in size and quality, are destined eventually to go into cartons and be sold under the Brookfield label. Others, perhaps not so large or so even in color, are sorted to get the highest price for their grades,

I ALWAYS WANTED TO TAKE A RIDE IN A FAST COOL CAR
I HEARD THEM SAY WE ARE TRAVELING 900 MILES TO THE BEST MARKET
SWIFT Brookfield
Brook SWIFT

Under refrigeration and in carload lots Swift & Company ships the eggs to more than 400 branch houses, each the distributing center for a great population. Every retailer customer of every branch house is a possible customer for any eggs that arrive at a produce plant.

IT LOOKS LIKE WE ARE THROUGH! IT'S A SHORT LIFE AND A MERRY ONE
ANYHOW, WE MADE THE BEST OF OURSELVES
Brookfield Eggs
Swift's Premium Quality

In these branch houses the best eggs are packed in cartons with the Brookfield label. Thousands of salesmen daily make their rounds, selling eggs, poultry and butter as they sell meat. That means economy in sales cost. Deliveries are so frequent the eggs reach the consumer in perfect condition just as they were when Swift & Company selected them.

With Swift & Company as a guide, every egg has the chance to make the most of itself. Demand is dug up by the sales force and fostered by product advertising. Costs of service are as low as long experience and great volume can make them. Profits are low—over a period of years profits from all sources have averaged only a fraction of a cent a pound.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Filled with Keen Anxiety When Lillian Underwood Shows Signs of Breaking Under the Strain of Rigid Self-Control.

MY throat went suddenly dry as I saw the expression, or rather the lack of one, upon Lillian's face, as she listened to Dicky's confident predicition that we were nearly out of the woods. She sat motionless, apathetic, as he said that he was sure the lake and trees, which Marion had described as being near their farmhouse prison, were not far away from the stile to which Ronald and I had trailed Samuel Brixton, and where we had seen him struck down.

"You're probably right," she said dully, when he had finished. She added no other word, but settled into her chair, looking suddenly 20 years older. I saw her husband glance anxiously at her, and knew that he shared with me the apprehension that she was beginning to break under the awful strain.

I knew what was the matter. The nearer loomed the possibility of the men making a sortie to rescue the girls, the more interminable seemed the hours which must elapse before it was made; but we all shared the knowledge that we must leave nothing to chance—that every step of the rescue must be carefully laid out beforehand.

We must wait for Dicky to drop the message to the kidnappers, also for his report of what he should find during his flight of the next few hours.

Dicky! Everything depended upon my husband, I told myself proudly, and then realized that I was being unjust, for the rescue party upon the ground would depend upon Hugh Grantland's resourcefulness and knowledge of strategy. His would also be the more dangerous role, I reminded myself, feeling guilty at the little throb of thankfulness that I could not quiet when I reflected that Dicky, though not of his own volition, would be beyond the reach of the kidnappers.

It was Harry Underwood's voice that brought me back from speculation. He had crossed the room and taking the map from Dicky's hand, he spread it out on the table and pretended to examine it, talking to me the while from the side of his mouth, although I do not think Lillian, staring straight in front of her, would have noticed if he had shouted the words.

"Get her to bed if you can," he muttered. "I've got to go back to Hugh, while the Dicky-bird snatches a few minutes' sleep. Wake him at 5, but don't pay any attention now to anybody but Lil."

"All right," I said, feeling suddenly as wooden as Lillian appeared. And then the men were gone, and I went over to Lillian, speaking to her twice before she heard me.

"What is it?" she queried, not looking up.

"I want you to get into bed," I said softly, but I had to repeat the words twice more before she answered.

"All right," she said dully, but she made no motion to rise, and I sent an appealing glance to Mary, who came quickly to my side and deftly helped me to draw her from her seat to a standing position.

"Come dear," I urged, and moving as if she were walking in her sleep, Lillian went between Mary and me to her bedroom. There, with no protest from her, without even a question, we undressed her, put her into night clothing and almost lifted her into bed. When I had covered her lightly, shivering at her eyes, fixed blankly upon the ceiling, I went to the door with Mary.

"I'll have to ask you to sit up for awhile," I told her. "You can sleep in the morning. If I don't come to you before, slip in here at a quarter to 5. I have to call your uncle at 5, and I don't dare leave her alone a minute while she is like this."

"They've Got Sam, Too!"

Mary nodded and slipped away, and went back to Lillian's bedside, anxiety for her driving me as with a whip. I never had seen her in this condition before. I did not know what it might presage. It was more terrifying than any burst of weeping, and I found myself wondering if I ought not to try some reference to Marion, which might bring tears to her. Action of some sort, or tears—some outlet must be found for that dammed-up emotion that she had controlled so rigidly that it had frozen her brain and muscles.

I never have felt quite so helpless in my life. I dared not speak of Marion, and I could think of no other appeal I could make to her. Fantastic thoughts of feigning some fall or injury to myself, that would startle her from her apathy, came to my mind, but doubted that anything I could pretend would rouse her.

And then, just as her staring eyes, her composure, were driving me to desperation, there came frantic, flying footsteps along the corridor, and Helena Brixton almost fell into the room wailing, "Lillian! They've got Sam, too! Oh, what shall I do? Help me!"

GENEVIEVE TOBIN IN HOLLYWOOD SPEAKS IS COMING TO OHIO

GENEVIEVE TOBIN

Hollywood tells on itself, some of the things that don't get into print either in the film magazines or the newspapers in "Hollywood Speaks," the picture which will show Wednesday and Thursday at the Ohio.

Genevieve Tobin, made famous by her portrayal of the name role in the stage production of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," and Pat O'Brien carry the featured roles, with Rita LaRoy and Lucien Prival, in important parts. Leni Stengel and Ralf Harolde are prominent in the cast.

The picture was directed by Eddie Buzzell from an original story by Norman Krasna, author of the stage hit, "Louder, Please." The picture takes the audience on tour through Hollywood, showing scenes of studios and sets, Hollywood parties and interesting outdoor scenes of the film capitol.

A PERPLEXING state of affairs is presaged by the contradictory planetary configurations holding sway on this day. While there is a sign of the accumulation of real possions—lands, tenancies and other means of stabilizing the fortunes yet there are some perils in speculative enterprises, litigation and caution should be preserved in making new contracts or in signing papers.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of conflicting interests, with some hazards in speculation, litigation or new contracts.

A child born on this day should win success by its talent.

Growth of an Idea.

The sales tax is a fine example of the effect of bad companions. More and more, as reflection takes the place of prejudice in thinking on taxation problems, it appears that opponents of the tax condemned it because condemnation happened to be their mood at the time. The depression, the necessity for placing a punishing tax burden on the people, pressure being brought to bear on congress from many sides—these were some of the bad companions which caused the sales tax to be condemned.

The idea, itself, is finding new support each day. The Associated Press reports a trend toward modified sales taxes in half the 48 states, and it is predicted that a sales tax will be passed when congress convenes again next winter. Necessity is doing what oratory and argumentation failed to do; it is selling the sales tax to a national market.

Perhaps the strongest argument against the tax is invalid during an emergency when the necessity for greater revenues is present. It is the productivity of the tax—productivity so tremendous that it tempts tax spenders into unwise actions. It is not generally remembered that until the income tax was declared constitutional the United States raised almost the whole of its revenue by indirect taxation, and nobody was aware of the burden.

The sales tax levies according to ability to pay, regardless of the argument that it places a disproportionate burden on the wage earner. Men spend according to their spending power; the heavy spender would be the heavy payer. The idea of taxing everything people buy naturally is shocking until it is considered and understood. Fortunately, wide discussion of sales taxation has introduced it to Americans. There is evidence that they are beginning to understand it.

There is a certain amount of revenue to be raised and the burden is distributed, regardless of the tax method used. The sales tax is not hypocritical; it does not make publicans of the powerful. It collects taxation as it should be collected—from individual Americans.

The People's Desire.

Despite deep disappointment with the disarmament conference's failure to do anything but talk, people who believe in its ideals can feel glad that they have been able to make a demonstration of their attitude.

Arthur Henderson, stout advocate of effectual disarmament, speaking as a Britisher and chairman of the conference, said at its close, "If I did not think that substantial reductions of armaments will be realized in the second phase of this conference, I would ask to be relieved from my post."

It is the "second phase" that the world is looking forward to now. There is a strong possibility that it may be unfolded in a more propitious period. Before it begins the unrelenting force of public opinion against the folly of arming endlessly for wars invited by the defense established against them may have prevailed on some of the innumerable obstacles standing in the path of disarmament.

In the closing days of the conference and in the resolution which was the summary of its work President Hoover's proposal for a one-third reduction in armaments was prominent. At no time was there the slightest reason to believe that it would be treated as anything but an impossible suggestion, but the very fact that it was published to the world is important in the long view of the fight to lessen the danger to the masses from international slaughter. It never can be forgotten now. Americans should be proud that it was their national leader who saved the disarmament conference from adjourning without even so much as a proposal reflecting the desires of the people in the nations of the world.

Loans, Not Gifts.

Hungry children descending on a bowl of candy never moved more quickly than the states did to make application for a share in the federal relief funds made available to them in the recent relief bill. And hungry children never thought less about what they were doing.

From the rush it might also be supposed that more than half the states are dependent solely on the federal government to keep them out of their own poor farms. Thirty states were on the spot with twitching jowls before the bill was signed by the President. It was the closest thing to a gold rush the modern generation will see.

Apparently, there is scant understanding of the terms of relief allowed states in the relief bill. The money made available is to be distributed as loans, not gifts. There loans must be repaid. Taxpayers must repay them while they are paying interest on the original amounts in the form of federal taxes. The only difference between this kind of borrowing and borrowing in the open market is that the money is easier to get.

It is doubtful if thoughtful citizens of the various states which have rushed to Washington with unseemly haste will be willing to approve borrowing on these conditions, unless it is absolutely necessary. Money made available undoubtedly will relieve genuine suffering in certain states. There is not the slightest part of wisdom in using it, however, as the

An Example in Efficiency.

A Martel school boy has exemplified what can be accomplished through efficiency and careful management in the face of adverse conditions.

Muryl Shumaker, who will be a senior in Martel High school next year, has qualified as an expert in the poultry and egg business. But designating him as an expert does not mean that what he accomplished is not possible with others engaging in the same activity. That, in fact, is the most important circumstance in connection with his record of achievement. He has given proof that although market conditions may not be the most favorable it is possible to operate on a profitable basis.

According to a report from the vocational agriculture instructor under whom Shumaker studies, the Martel youth had a flock of pullets which yielded an average of 44.7 per cent egg production from last October to March and obtained from this output 11 cents a dozen above feed costs in a season when prices were unusually low.

This, it seems, is considerably above the average margin of profit in egg sales. If that is true, there is but one likely explanation. Shumaker must have employed methods different from those ordinarily used in the poultry and egg business.

News reports of the Martel youth's record came in connection with his winning of first prize in poultry judging in the annual vocational agriculture contests at Ohio State university. This award was won by him in competition with several hundred other Ohio boys. Previous to that he was awarded a prize for successfully raising 91 per cent of his first brood of chicks in 1931.

Viewed as a whole, Shumaker's record ranks him as a young rural business man who knows the right road to success. It is found through study and unceasing attention to all details of an undertaking, along with an effort to improve upon long-established methods.

Railroad Chess.

The most intricate and protracted chess game in the world is the attempt to manipulate dozens of railroads in the East and Middle West into positions of defensive strength. The country just now is being treated to another phase of this vitally important game with unwieldy pieces.

It is the interstate commerce commission's decision to approve consolidation of the roads into four super-systems—a decision that comes with all the surprising effect of a tortoise crossing the line in a five-month endurance contest. It is important, despite the slowness which has been its companion. Not the least of the reasons for its importance is the fact that it represents fulfillment of a wish made by the railroads last fall.

What appeared at that time to be a possibility of progress was obliterated immediately by the interstate commerce commission, which blocked the four-system plan with a five-system project of its own. Despite the fact that consolidation was agreed upon generally as the remedy for railroad ills, there was nothing but a deadlock in sight.

The commission, relenting, agreed to hold hearings in January, this year, on the four-system plan. Those hearings now ended, are responsible for approval of the railroads' solution for their own problem. It would be a matter worthy of excitement, were it not for the certainty that years would be needed to get anywhere if a start were made immediately.

The railroad consolidation problem is a hardy perennial in the nation's thorny garden of problems. Eleven years ago congress instructed the interstate commerce commission to formulate a plan. Ten years ago it presented a plan and started to hold hearings. For years it heard the evidence and in 1925, discouraged and puzzled, asked to be released from its assignment. Congress took no action.

Finally, in 1929, the commission produced another plan—the five-system scheme. It was unacceptable to the railroads. They countered with a four-system plan, announced by President Hoover last December. At that time the President hailed it as a promising contribution "to the recovery of business," but another half year has been consumed by the commission in coming to an agreement to support it.

The people do not understand railroads. There probably are not more than a dozen men in the United States who do, and they don't agree. From the standpoint of reason, the best part of the commission's latest report is the dissenting section written by Commissioner Eastman, who declares that the economic situation "makes peculiarly unwise any attempt to determine a permanent alignment for carriers in eastern territory." But he has nothing else to offer and it is generally agreed that some kind of action is essential. The people are dissatisfied with the handling of the problem. They want action taken to preserve the railroads' physical property and securities, or they will hold high officials and the interstate commerce commission of the United States responsible for making a botch of a job on which much of the national welfare depends. There is not room in the world for any more Nero-types to accompany the burning of Rome with endless sawing on a fiddle.

Comment of the Press

DENTISTS' GOLD.

Dentists have a new problem, as evidenced in the numerous robberies of New York dental offices. Carrying stocks of gold for fillings, crowns and whatnot, the dentists are dealing in the world's most cherished commodity. It is not locked in amply protected vaults like the precious metal reserves of banks, but stuffed nonchalantly into the drawers of office cabinets. To be sure, the dentists' holdings are small in bulk, but a thief needs only a pocketful of the much-desired yellow metal to put him on easy street.

Like so many other troubles with which our society is afflicted, this sudden raid on dental gold hoards must be blamed cheerfully on the price level. Gold is the only commodity of consequence which has appreciated in value. We commonly think of it as stable in price, because a fixed quantity is our measure of value. But in reality gold has increased greatly in value, because it will buy far more of clothes or houses or food than it did two or three years ago.

The dentists have several alternatives in this grave dilemma. They can give up the use of gold and fill teeth with silver, which is absurdly low in price just now, to the dissatisfaction of the Senators from Utah and Nevada. Or they can build vaults with electric warnings to arouse them from bed at night when prowlers are seeking their gold. Or they can urge expansion of the currency and bring down the buying power of gold somewhat.

But no doubt the simplest way would be to require the patient to pay in advance in gold coin. Then they could take the $5 out of his pocket, melt it down and put it into the patient's head and send him on his way. The only thing the thieves could do then would be to rob the innocent passer-by of his gold crowns and fillings.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Don't Ride So Much! For Health, Walk.

For some unfortunates various forms of exercise are more harmful than beneficial, but there is at least one exercise that can be safely practiced by everyone. It costs nothing, yet I can think of no better exercise than walking. Golf and some other forms of recreation are expensive, but walking requires no equipment beyond a good pair of shoes and the willingness to indulge in it.

Walking once was popular. Walking clubs and well organized hiking parties were heard of throughout the country. But this beneficial form of exercise unfortunately has declined in popularity. Few of us walk today unless we are compelled to do so. The street car, the train and the automobile take us to our destinations.

I believe the health of the nation has suffered as a result of some of man's inventions. Poor complexion, indigestion, insomnia, headache and irritability are signs of poor health caused by lack of proper exercise and physical activity. Machines should not take the place of feet and well-directed muscular effort.

Every individual should make it a practice to walk at least one mile each day. Instead of riding every day, walk to work occasionally. Your daily duties will prove more interesting and less fatiguing.

As you walk, keep the body erect, the head up and the abdomen in. The chest should be high and the shoulders thrown back. The arms should swing freely from the shoulders. Point the toes straight forward and walk on the balls of your feet.

Perhaps you have been suffering from lack of appetite, poor digestion, constipation and loss of sleep. I can think of no better cure for these ailments than walking. It will stimulate your appetite, aid indigestion and promote proper elimination. Be outdoors and in the sunlight as much as possible.

Do not permit yourself to become prematurely old. Walking will help you avoid ill health and those constitutional complaints that hasten old age. See to it that you walk more than has been your practice, taking pains to walk in the manner described.

Many persons complain of pain and discomfort when walking. Sometimes this is due to lack of muscular development of the feet, and can be overcome by gradually increasing periods of exercise. Increase your walks slowly. Do not walk too much all of a sudden. Make sure that your shoes are comfortable and your feet in good health—that bunions, corns or other foot disabilities are corrected before long walks are taken.

At a later time I will tell you about the care of the feet and how to choose proper shoes. In the meantime use your feet and legs more than you have.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, July 26, 1922.

A news report from Chicago stated that "Stand firm and stick together" appeared to be the slogan of the striking railway shopmen of the country as negotiations for a settlement reached a stage where each side apparently was waiting for the next move of the opposition.

Members of the Kiwanis club and their families held their annual picnic at Scioto, making the trip by automobile and in a special C., D. & M. car, supplied by A. F. VanDeinse.

John J. Lentz, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, in an address given at the courthouse charged Senator Atlee Pomerene with being unfaithful and disloyal to the Democratic party and also charged that he had embarrassed the Democratic party leaders, including Woodrow Wilson, by opposing woman suffrage.

Miss Margaret Shirely Christian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Christian of Nevada, and Harold Dever Carder of Marion were united in marriage by Rev. C. L. Allen at the Calvary Evangelical parsonage.

Philip Winslow, 87, Civil war veteran, died at the home of his son, Lewis Winslow on Park street.

E. L. Courtney, who has held the rank of horseshoe pitching champion in Marion for two months, was dethroned in a contest with M. L. Harruff on the West Side court.

The Marion Chamber of Commerce baseball team was defeated by the Kenton Chamber team in a game at Kenton by a score of 20-10. The batteries were Steffin and Roof for Kenton and McDaniel and Van Aurmen for Marion.

Approximately 3,000 persons attended the annual Firemen's festival at Gast's grove in Prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilhelm entertained at a family dinner at their home on Blaine avenue, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Wilhelm and family, of Marion, Ind.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, July 26, 1912.

With the arrest of "Dago Frank" Cirosici as one of the four assassins of Herman Rosenthal, New York gambler, who was killed because he gave information concerning police grafters, District Attorney Whitman declared that he had made a long stride towards getting at the bottom of the crime.

Justice Keogh handed down a decision in court at White Plains, N. Y., denying to Harry K. Thaw his release from Mattawan on a writ of habeas corpus.

Andrew Schlosser, 74, veteran of the Civil war, died at his home on Scranton avenue after an illness of several years.

Erie police officers here received orders to watch refrigerator trains passing through Marion in an effort to put a stop to theft of ice from the trains, which had been reaching alarming proportions. It was reported that some of the trains which did not take on ice at Marion lacked sufficient supply as a result of the theft to last until Hornell, the next ice station, was reached.

Misses Rosalie and Dorothy Strelitz, who were hostesses to a number of out-of-town visitors at a week-end house party, entertained a company of young people with a porch picnic at their home on South Prospect street for the pleasure of their guests.

Miss Fern Heist gave a lawn party at her home on Park street in celebration of her seventeenth birthday anniversary.

A proposal to remove the fences from around the high school and Central building grounds and to open the grounds to the public for use as a park, was adopted at a meeting of the city board of education.

James R. Lupton, 48, former resident of Morral and Oceola, died suddenly at Prendergast, Tenn., where he was employed as mill foreman by the Prendergast Lumber Co.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

ACROSS OHIO IN 1806.

On Sept. 15, 1806, Rev. Paul Henkel, Lutheran church minister, returned to his home in Virginia with stories of a tour extending through Ohio as far west as the Miami river.

A constantly recurring note in the diary of Mrs. Henkel emphasized that the question of infant baptism was then a leading one. His church believed in it and he practiced it, but in some places he was threatened because of his baptism of children.

Nevertheless, he wrote that on his long trip he baptized 96 children and collected 18 pounds and six pence, which, traveling as he did, and being entertained for the most part, must nearly have covered the cost of the expedition.

With the Inventors

Intended to be clamped to one edge of a table, a double ironing board has been invented, one part serving for general purposes, while a hinged arm is used when sleeves are pressed.

Backboards made of glass instead of wood have been invented so that spectators seated behind the goals at basket ball games can watch all the plays made.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 26—Caroline D. Emerson has written a history of old New York for children, that strikes me as vastly exciting for grown ups. One learns, Chatham Square once had a marvelous natural spring, known as Tea Water Pump. Carts came from everywhere trundlin casks to be filled.

Market dealers sold their wares by lusty poetic chants. For instance, the clam man sang:

"They're good to roast, they're good to fry,
"They're good to make a clam pot pie."

Cat-tails were sold to the poor as stuffing for the mattresses, and the "cat tail man" was always the children's friend, telling stories in the manner of the rado bed-time uncle. All shops hung out signs bearing pictures. The leading livery stable was called, "Two Running Horses."

The tinsmith shop was "The Cat and the Kettle," with a tabby asleep in front of the brass kettle. The "Sun and Breeches" was the tailor. There were no street numbers, so people were directed by shop signs. Hence: "We live two doors from 'The Andiron and Candlestick.'"

Clothes were woven on hand looms in the home, and school children learned the alphabet by sewing letters into samplers. In 1850, all of New York lay below 10th street. The reservoir stood where the public library stands. A Mayor of that day insisted the city would never grow to Central Park.

Ethelbert and Gwendolyn, the family goldfish, have rounded out six months in their new abode. "Rounded out" is a propitious term for, like civilization, in a similar period they have been sweeping around and around, winding up just where they started. Their orbit is one of those enormously flanged brandy glasses. It has been a vagrant thought to relieve their tedium by giving them a day's freedom in a filled bath tub. But a goldfish expert—and how does he know?—tells me they would not like that. They would merely be like Kasper Hauser, who babbled in the light for return to the dungeon.

My enthusiasm for goldfish continues passive. As a decorative bit, I suppose they are all right, but I have never reached the point of talking baby talk to them. That's the true test of devotion to household pets. A satisfying point, however, is their upkeep. They set you back about a dime a year. Incidentally, some one tells me Lou Tellengen eats goldfish fried in butter.

On the Waldorf roof, I enjoyed watching a thoroughly Occidental pair of young Japanese on the dance floor. He was in correct full dress with an American gloss to his hair and a silver chain looping from a trouser pocket. She was in white silk with a bright red shoulder flower, and puffed a cigaret from a long red holder. During a tango, they executed steps so expertly, a handful of other tangoists withdrew to watch. Suddenly conscious of attention they flushed and quickly left the floor. Passing our table, she turned to him, and exclaimed: "I never felt so deliciously sappy."

They were airing James Montgomery Flagg's indifference to flattery. From the porticoed leafiness surrounding the patio of the gone and regretted Park Avenue hotel, one evening, I eavesdropped on a group of fresno diners below which included Flagg. During festivities, a gurgling poof, mincing over from another table, tapped the artist on the shoulder and cooed: "Mr. Flagg, may I pay you a compliment?" He nodded and added: "But make it snappy!"

Chained to a typewriter in this daily grind, the slightest interruption often sends thoughts spraying in absurd shoots. A yong man delivering an autographed volume this morning, has completely gummed up the works. He sported a bright green tie, and the sight of it set off a gnawing crave for green apples and salt, that has fretted a hot, pale forehead almost beyond endurance.

Another ecstatic yearn — Freudians would give it some inferiority significance—is launched every time I pass the 46th street front of the Roosevelt Hotel. Its gray-back curlicues inspire a stinging hunger for a hefty slice of marble cake.—Copyright, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

WIVES—AND EX-WIVES.

There are certain moods in which a man is completely immune to the dangers of marriage and the wiles of women. Usually, when he doesn't need anybody to help him love himself, pity himself or amuse himself.

What Price Beauty?

Alas, the beauty-creams I've tried in vain!
The health-fads I have known to wax and wane
Have gripped the public fancy for a while—
Then passed as lightly as a summer rain.

Of spinach I've consumed a ton or two,
And learned all fattening dishes to eschew
And yet, withal, I am no lovelier now
Than if I'd dined each day on Irish stew!

The beauty-parlors I have fondly tried
Have tempted me—but ah, how oft they lied.
For this I found—a "facial" lasts a day,
And dyed hair always looks distinctly dyed.

Daily Talk to Parents

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

GETTING RESULTS.

The old-fashioned parent prided himself upon the fact that when he spoke his children leapt to obey him.

The modern educator, whether parent or teacher, is content with an obedience less dramatic. He knows that children's faults are not to be eradicated by command and that the apparent success of the old method is due to the influence of fear.

Fear holds the child in check, makes him obey—but only so long as he is afraid.

His natural impulses are subjected not to guidance and education, but to repression. The moment the repressive authority is removed, the unchanged feelings appear in their primitive form.

Modern methods of child-training do not attempt to achieve perfect behavior. They do aim to win and keep the child's good will, to teach him a few immediately useful good habits and to foster in him the desire to be good.

The child almost never is expected to give up at once a pleasure which is important to him. He is expected to do so only gradually and in return for other satisfactions.

A little girl, for instance, who distresses her parents by primping much before the mirror, posing and talking in an affected manner, is not simply told that she must stop or threatened with punishment.

Instead she is praised for her helpfulness, for her good sportsmanship over disappointments, for her good work at school, for her friendliness to a visiting cousin.

She is reassured that she is loved and she is shown how she may win further approval. Her vanity is ignored, and gradually, as she learns that she may be satisfied with herself in other ways, she ceases to be vain about her appearance.

These [illegible] include road taxes. [illegible] the general receipts for [illegible] running expense of the [illegible]

The commissioners' estimate for [illegible] and other expense remains the same. $4,450.14, the courthouse and jail remains the same. $1,500 for salary and $500 for improvements.

The salary for the county home expense is reduced in the budget from $3,000 this year to $2,200 for 1933 and other expense at the home will be cut from $6,500 to $[illegible].

The personal service fund for charity remains at $3,500 but $1,[illegible] is cut from the other estimated expense for charity which was $2,[illegible] this year.

An allowance of $4,000 is made for agriculture, as compared with $3,500 for this year. The greater part of this goes to the fair board. Miscellaneous personal service and expense is estimated at $4,000 for the year.

A reduction of $100 was made in the auditor's office, from $4,700 to $4,600. Estimated expense for the election board is $2,500 for 1933 against $3,800 for this year. The added expense this year comes from it being a national and state election year.

In the treasurer's office the amount for personal service remains at $2,900 and no estimate is made for other expense which amounts to approximately $990 for this year in the office. A reduction of $200 is made in the personal service estimate for the recorder's office from $1,400 to $1,200. Personal service estimate for the prosecuting attorney is estimated at $1,700 as against $2,000 for this year. In the common pleas court the estimate for personal service is cut from $4,316 to $3,500. In the probate court it is raised from $3,250 to $3,500 but the other expense of the office is cut from $850 to $500. Juvenile court expense estimates are the same as for this year, approximately $5,000.

In the office of clerk of courts the estimated expense is cut from approximately $2,300 to $1,800. A reduction of approximately $300 is included in the estimate of the expenses of the sheriff's office. Personal service estimates for the surveyor are cut from $7,308 to $5,000. Soldiers' relief remains the same at about $2,104.

Thus the total estimated general expenditures amount to $81,419.19 with the estimated receipts at $80,100.

A sharp reduction is made in the amount to be spent for roads and bridges. Receipts for this purpose are estimated at only $4,000 and the appropriation is the same from the general fund. The gas tax and automobile license tax receipts are estimated at $58,500 while the estimated expenditures from the fund amount to $62,672.

MISSING MAN FOUND DEAD

Body of Crawford County Home Inmate Discovered by Farmer.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 26 — A mute story of suffering, exposure and probably starvation was brought to light Monday afternoon with discovery of the badly decomposed body of Dennis Callahan, 67, inmate of the Crawford county home since March 1931, hanging suspended by the foot from a wire fence a quarter mile south of the home. He had been missing from the institution since June 1. Discovery of the body was made by Lee Thatcher, while he was engaged in cutting thistles along the fence.

Verdict of accidental death was given by Coroner George Mannhardt of Galion, who with Sheriff C. Fred Vollmer and Deputy Charles Vollmer investigated the death.

Callahan left the home June 1 failing to state where he was going and his failure to return caused no apprehension at the home until he did not return in the evening. W. I. Holmes, superintendent at the home, stated that he went to Galion the following day and notified police of the man's disappearance and a sister, Mrs. Frank Klopfenstein, living east of Galion was also informed.

Mrs. Klopfenstein felt no alarm over her brother's continued absence, being of the opinion that he had returned to Chicago where he had formerly been employed.

Besides Mrs. Klopfenstein Mr. Callahan is survived by a sister, Mrs. Don Crint of Mansfield and a brother living in Wisconsin.

FAIRGROUND TRACK RECORDS IN DANGER OF BEING SHATTERED

Post Time of First Race 8:15; Racing Promises To Continue High Standard.

With a field of something like 175 horses already on hand and more coming in all the time, the first night's events of a four-night horse racing program will get under way tonight at the Fairground track. Eight fifteen is post time for the first race, the 24 pace. Three events are carded for the inaugural program with some of the finest horseflesh in the country doing their bit to capture a share in the purses. The purse for the 24 pace will be $200, for the 2:10 trot $250 and the claiming pace, $200.

The Marion Driving club has been making some sort of history in the last few years with its high class speed program presentations. The four-night meet starting tonight promises to retain the high standard set up in previous meets.

Every one of the four nights will have one big feature event, tonight's being the claiming pace, the last on the program. Nearly all of the horses in this event have records of 2:17 or better. Piloting the entries will be such grand circuit drivers as Cartnal, McMillen, Erskine, Vaul, Harvey, Valentine, Craig, Smart, Walton, Plaxico, King and many others whose names are bywords wherever the sport of kings holds away.

Eleven entries have been named to go to the post in the 24 pace with the railbirds putting Emma Braden driven by Doc McMillen on the long end of the odds. Eight will step out in the 16 trot with the wise money riding on Just the Guy although several others may be expected to give the McMillen driven horse plenty of opposition. Joe Lewis will draw the favorite's backing in the third and final race in which there are nine entries. Plaxico will be in the driver's seat.

EX-LEGION CLUB IN FIRST MEETING

At the organization meeting of the Ex-Legion baseball club last night at the parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal church, a partial organization was effected. The group will meet again Wednesday night to complete the organization. Walter E. Hane is in charge of the group. A total of 56 boys are already listed in the three divisions of the club, the prep squad, junior squad and senior squad.

Regular monthly meetings will be held. The organization is founded primarily for the development of baseball players.

METHODISTS LOSE TO FOREST LAWN, 1-0

Christian Seniors Take Over No. 2 League Lead by Beating Wesley, 9-0; Reformed Wins.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

The Forest Lawn Presbyterians were knocked out of the pennant race in the No. 2 Sunday school league several weeks ago. However though they can't grab the flag themselves, there is nothing to prevent them from having a lot to say about who does capture the bunting. The Epworth Seniors made this discovery yesterday but they made it too late to do anything about a 1-0 beating which they were handed while finding it out. The East siders grabbed the 1-0 decision and at the same time shoved the Methodists from a position a half game in the lead of the field to second place, a full game and a half behind the Christian Seniors. The Christians made hay while the sun shone by handing Wesley M. E. a 9-0 lacing to take over the top post. In the only other game played First Reformed took a 9-5 victory from the United Brethren. St. Paul Lutheran took a 9-0 forfeit victory from the Christian No. 1.

Kellogg Goes Good

Mutt Kellogg proved the undoing of the Epworth Seniors. The right handed speedball pitcher of Forest Lawn set the Methodists down with three hits, no more than one of the three coming in any one inning. Neither team scored until the fourth frame when errors allowed Ward to cross the plate for Forest Lawn. That one run was enough. Kellogg took care of the Methodists from that point on, throttling every possible scoring chance. Kellogg filled the bases in one inning and struck out three men.

A whole flock of errors combined with nine safe hits made the going easy for the Christian Seniors against the Wesley M. E. nine. The game finished with the leaders on top by a 9-0 count. Art Amick set the losers down with two hits, both singles. Only one Wesley runner got as far as second base and only five more got as far as the initial sack. The Christian Seniors scored in all except the first and last innings.

Reformed on Top

First Reformed and United Brethren went through somewhat of a slugging bee with the first named team finishing up on the long end of a 9-5 score. The Reformed banged out 10 safe hits and the U. B. batters accounted for seven.

Batteries and score by innings:

United Brethren	101 001 2—5
First Reformed	303 210 x—9

U. B., Shultz and Noble; Reformed, Creasap and Pfalzgraf.

Christian Seniors	012 114 0—9
Wesley M. E.	000 000 0—0

Christians, Amick and Schneider; Wesley, Lashey and Riemar.

Forest Lawn	000 100 0—1
Epworth Seniors	000 000 0—0

Forest Lawn, Kellogg and Peadon; Epworth Seniors, Whitcum, Corwin and Wolfe.

YANKEES NOT LIKELY TO STAY ON TOP FOR MORE THAN ONE YEAR

New York Vets Nearing End of String; Cleveland Appears Contender.

By The Associated Press

Even if they coast on through to the American league title, it is doubtful the Yankees will stay up there longer than one term.

The Ruppert rifles are not the same club they were in the days of Waite Hoyt, and the old "murderers' row."

True, many of that famous crowd are still around, and they are doing yeoman work in the Yanks' current drive. But they no longer make up a team that is young and full of fire and just reaching its peak.

Fellows like Ruth, Combs, Lazzeri and little Joe Sewell cannot be expected to star much longer, and Manager Joe McCarthy probably will have to do plenty of revamping next season. He will have plenty to build from, a fine nucleus in Gomez, Allen, Dickey, Gehrig, Crossetti, Chapman and the rest, but history proves it takes more than one year to build a championship club.

With the Philadelphia Athletics getting no better fast, the Cleveland Indians look like the best bet at the moment, with Detroit a possibility.

In the National league, where the Pittsburgh Pirates threaten to run away from the field, there is an entirely different situation. If George Gibson does drive his youngsters under the wire first, there is no good reason why they should not stay up there a couple more years.

One of the veterans of the Athletics' championship machine, George (Mule) Haas, came back to grasp the headlines in the only game played yesterday in either league. His home run in the last of the ninth off Lefty Gomez with one on gave the Athletics an 8 to 7 victory over the Yankees. It was Gomez's misfortune to lose his fifth game of the year by pitching to only two batters.

CLEVELAND SEEKS 4 IN ROW FROM YANKS

Rampaging Indians Out To Gain Ground on American Leaders.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 26—Hot on the trail of the American league championship, Cleveland's rampaging Indians returned to their home field today, intent upon scalping the New York Yankees in four straight games.

To beat the Yankees four-in-a-row is admittedly well-night impossible, but the Tribesmen, fresh from winning 18 out of 25 games on the road, felt equal to the task.

For the Indians, the series will be a case of "now or never." The Yankees, leading the league by a 9½-game margin, just about have the pennant cinched, but the Tribesmen do not intend to give up without a terrific fight.

The series with the Yankees will be played at Dunn field, but Sunday the Indians will move into the $2,500,000 Cleveland stadium to tackle last year's champions, the Philadelphia Athletics.

TRED AVON LIKED IN CHICAGO RACE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 26—The Arlington matron stakes for fillies and mares at a mile and a furlong, with a gross value of more than $12,000, will be decided at Arlington park tomorrow with Tred Avon, owned by S. L. Labrot of Baltimore, ruling as favorite.

NO GAMES TODAY

There will be no softball games played in the No. 1 Sunday school circuit today. The three games originally booked have been postponed on account of rain and wet grounds. No date has been set for their play-off.

3,000 FANS GO WILD AS ASHBY SCORES K O OVER SAM VANGLER

Outdoor Arena Crowd Sets Record Here; Battling Fast and Furious.

With nearly 3,000 fans filling the Shovel open air arena to capacity, Sammy Vangler and Spike Ashby demonstrated to Marion fans that a man should stick to his own trade.

Efforts of Vangler and Ashby, both rough and tumble wrestlers, to settle their differences with the gloves proved this point and provided fans with nine rounds of first class comedy. Will Rogers and Ed Wynn appearing on the same program could not have brought more laughs.

It was not that it was not a good fight, for it was. But when the fighters started mixing wrestling with their fighting then it knocked the fans out of their seats.

Spike Ashby won by a knockout in the ninth round of their scheduled 15-round match. He floored Vangler seven times before the Parkersburg, W. Va., Jewish boy finally was counted out.

The boys started out with Ashby attempting to box while Vangler simply kept fanning the air with haymakers, and he connected with plenty of them. In the second round Ashby was fouled by a low blow and was awarded the fall after a rest period.

Then the fun began. Referee Jimmy Conarty was practically up in the air in an effort to keep the bout on a fighting basis. Vangler, when in a tight place, would duck out of the ropes and then come back with arms swinging like windmills. The only times they clinched was when one or the other would get a headlock.

Vangler did some nice work with his feet, although he was not compelled to wear boxing gloves on them, too. A couple of toe holds and a flying wrist lock added to the merriment.

Although no official count was kept, it was estimated that Vangler was knocked down at least 25 times. In most quarters that was considered conservative. Ashby finished the match with a badly swollen nose, a cut lip and a black eye.

The crowd established a record for a wrestling show here. Many were refused tickets when the standing room was all taken. Fans were anticipating a new thrill in something unusual. They did not seem disappointed.

Tiger Mitchel of Youngstown was defeated in the wrestling preliminary in straight falls by Dick Griffin of Toledo, former Marion boy. Griffin took the first in 23½ minutes with a standing leg split and the second with an airplane spin slam.

Jack Thompson of El Paso, Tex., was pinned by Tom Temple of Marion in 21½ minutes with a flying tackle.

COURT TOURNEY IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND

By The Associated Press

LAKESIDE, O., July 26—The semi-final singles round of the northern Ohio junior tennis tournament here was on tap today with George Steineman Jr., of Sandusky, matched against Roger Harman, of Cincinnati, and Frank Humberger of Troy pitted against Theodore Thorward of Cleveland.

In the girls' division finals, Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, 1931 champion, was matched with Ann Neracher of Cleveland.

ST. LOUIS GOLFER TO DEFEND CROWN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 26—Bob Cockran of St. Louis today started defense of the Western junior title golf title he won last year from Charles Becka of Chicago against a field of more than 200.

Young Joe Nichols of California, medalist in the recent national Public Links championships, was among those on hand for a try at the title.

ANOTHER SETBACK

ROGER CRAMER

DOC CRAMER LOST TO A'S REST OF SEASON

Outfielder of Mackmen Breaks Collarbone Chasing Joe Sewell's Fly.

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26—Roger (Doc) Cramer's only chance of getting back in a regular baseball game this season is for Connie Mack's Athletics to win the American league pennant, it appeared today.

Cramer broke his left shoulder bone yesterday when he fell while trying to make a catch.

Specialists explained that the crippled "Doc," second only to Jimmy Foxx in Athletic batting averages, will be able to leave the hospital in about three days but his arm will not be removed from a sling until about September 1.

YANKS FAVORED TO WIN IN POLE VAULT

American Olympic High Jumpers Also Appear To Be Class of World.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 26—In the Olympic field sports calling for more agility than sheer brawn, the United States still has a decided edge, although it is a curious development that now finds Japan and Haiti contributing two of the world's foremost long-jumpers to the international athletic party.

American coaches regard the pole vault and the running high jump as "cinches" for Uncle Samuel's entries. Japan figures again to capture the hop, step and jump. Southern California's Dick Barber alone seems to have much chance to stop the men who have exceeded 26 feet in the broad jump—Sylvio Cator of Haiti and Chuhei Nambu of Japan.

The Olympic pole vault seems merely a vehicle for the renewal of the California rivalry between Bill Garber of U. S. C. and Bill Miller of Stanford. Miller broke the world record once and Garber twice in the final U. S. trials before hoisting himself over the bar at 14 feet, 4⅜ inches.

All three of the American high jumpers bettered the Olympic record of 6 feet, 6 inches in the final trials. The favorite is New York's George Spitz, holder of the world indoor record of 6 feet 8⅝ inches, but he will have to beat the pair with whom he tied at Palo Alto—Bob Van Osdel of Southern California and Cornelius Johnson, Los Angeles High school boy.

There is not a single foreign entry of note or conspicuous prowess in either the high jump or pole vault.

Two Louisiana boys, Sidney (Snakey) Bowman and Rolland Romera, youngest athlete on the American track and field team, have a good chance to score in the hop, step and jump.

Besides the Olympic champion, Mikia Oda, Japan relies on Nambu and Oshima. Oda has cleared more than 51 feet, bettering the world record.

Barber's running mates in the broad jump are Ed Gordon of Iowa and Lambert Redd of Bradley Tech, Illinois, both consistently capable of clearing over 25 feet. All should get into the scoring column, made up of the first six.

CAREY WINS FROM TOLEDO TEAM, 6-5

Harve Ferner turned in another victory Sunday for the Carey Semi-pro baseball team when he pitched the club to a 6-5 victory over Palmero's All-Stars of Toledo. Ferner now has 11 wins and four losses. Both teams collected 10 hits, Carey scoring the winning tally in the thirteenth inning on a wild pitch.

Friday the Carey team will play a twilight game with the Columbus Travelers, colored, at Carey.

Batteries and score by innings:

Carey	102 002 000 000 1—6	10	3
Toledo	000 220 100 000 0—5	10	3

Carey, Ferner and Orians; Toledo, Schult, Palmero, Miller, Krause.

COLUMBUS ADVA FULL GAME AS WALLOP MILLERS

Red Birds Whitewash 5-0 Behind Pitchin Bud Parmelee.

By The Associated P

CHICAGO, July 26—If plays as well at home recent road trip, which likely, and if Minneapolis better on the rest of its than it did last night, the Association may have leader before long.

The Red Birds yesterd their tenth game in eleve defeating Indianapolis, 5 hind the swell but sligh pitching by Bud Parmalee the Indians to five hits bu two, hit two batsmen a mitted one wild pitch. ponent, Stuart Bolen, wa for ten hits, including Nick twenty-fourth home run of son.

The victory, of course, lumbus a gain of a full the Indians, and the same on Minneapolis, which on the road trip by taking 3 defeat from Kansas C night game.

A fancy job of pitc Johnny "Moose" Marcum ninth inning saved a 4 to for Louisville over Toled the tieing and winning run Marcum fanned two men the game.

Minneapolis, leading by one-half games, finishes with Kansas City Wednes back home for four with kee, then returns to the 15 games—while Columbu at home.

WHEAT SCORES EARLY GAINS

Corn, However, Slips Somewhat Lower on Reports of Rainfall.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 26—Wheat tended upward and corn down early today. Less favorable Canadian crop reports gave firmness to wheat. Rains eased the corn market. Opening unchanged to ¼ higher, wheat afterward rose a little all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ off and subsequently sagged further.

Concentrated selling, so much recently in evidence, was absent in wheat today. Advices indicated spring wheat deterioration south as well as north of the Canadian boundary. A Chicago crop expert telegraphing from Brandon, Manitoba, said that from Broadview east to within 30 miles of the Monitoba border wheat was very spotted as a result of premature ripening.

Reduced estimates of wheat yield in the Canadian prairie provinces were noted, totaling but 430,000,000 bushels. Other reports said that from Glasgow, Mont., east to Williston, N. D., wheat was all ready damaged by excessive heat. Corn and oats were bearishly affected by rainfalls in parts of Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. Oats outdid the season's low price record.

Provisions reflected hog market declines.

CLEVELANDER COPS MANSFIELD MEET

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., July 26—Ohio's six entrants for the National Professional Golfers association championship tournament will be Waldo Crowder of Cleveland, Leonard Schmutte of Lima, Denny Shute of Hudson, Art Smith of Cincinnati, Reggie Myles of Ashland and Al Sargent of Toledo.

The six qualified yesterday by leading a field of 31 contestants at the Westbrook Country club. Crowder scored 6-71—138, to lead the lot, but Schmutte was just one stroke behind him. Shute got 140, Smith took 142, and Myles and Sargent scored 143 each.

Before entering the medal play in the national tourney at St. Paul, next month, the Ohioans must fight their way through the qualifying round there also.

OPPONENTS FIGHT O K OF PAAVO NURMI

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, July 26—Strong opposition has developed to Finland's efforts to reinstate Paavo Nurmi, star distance runner, in time to permit his fourth participation in the Olympics.

Stern as the Nurmi fight is certain to be, in effect it will be secondary to the battle within the International Amateur Athletic federation over the power of its council to suspend an athlete arbitrarily for alleged violation of amateur rules.

The effort to reinstate Nurmi is scheduled to take place Friday. He was charged with receiving money outside the sums covering his expenses and for which he had receipts, during a tour of five German cities in September and October, 1931. The runner specifically denied each itemized charged.

Will Absorb Tax.

CHICAGO, July 26—The management of the Chicago stadium announced today it would absorb the federal tax of 10 per cent on $1, $2 and $3 tickets for the Eddie Shea-Kid Chocolate junior lightweight championship bout on Aug. 4.

WRESTLING RESULTS

CAMDEN, N. J.—Casey Kazanjian, California, and Nick Lutze, St. Louis, drew, each winning one fall.

WASHINGTON—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, 238, Los Angeles, threw George McLeod, 210, Boston, (18 minutes).

WALKER WINS BOUT IN OPENING ROUND

Solid Right to Jaw Puts Italian to Sleep; Purses Held Up.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., July 26—A solid right to the jaw a minute after the opening bell gave Mickey Walker a one round knockout over Salvatore Ruggirello at Dreamland park last night but he had to argue for his pay before the state athletic commission today.

Officials of the commission ordered the purses of both principals held up.

John H. Flood, administrative officer, and Joseph A. Maloney, secretary, attended the scrap and gave the order to Inspector John Donnelly.

Walker tore into Ruggirello, whipped a few lefts into the giant's mid-section and, banking him into a neutral corner loosed the right that spelled the end, 1 minute and 10 seconds after the start.

Walker weighed 169 to Ruggirello's 205½.

FIGHTERS SIGNED, BUT CAN'T APPEAR

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 26—Unless the New Jersey athletic commission lifts its ban on Henry and Herman Perlick, twin lightweights from Kalamazoo, Mich., the West Side Boxing club's Thursday program is likely to be hit.

Promoter Jim Mullen signed the twins to meet Barney Ross and Harry Dublinsky, a pair of Chicago boxers. The Illinois Athletic commission refused to approve the bouts as the suspensions imposed by the New Jersey commission hold in all National Boxing Association states.

Mullen tried to talk John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois commission into approving the bouts. When the latter refused, hot words were had, and only the intervention of witnesses prevented action by "heavyweights" neither of whom are licensed to box.

Marion Netters Lose.

Marion's tennis players were able to take but two of seven matches Sunday from Lancaster in matches played at the Steam Shovel athletic field courts. W. B. Long defeated the No. 1 Lancaster man, 3-6, 6-4 and 12-10. John Smith won 6-3, 6-4 for the other Marion victory. Marion singles players who were defeated are Wolfinger, Salter and Yazel. Crawford and Salter paired in one doubles match and Wolfinger and Cunningham in the other. Both were beaten.
